Author: Aslı Perker

Illustrator: Ezgi Keleş

A little help can make all the difference — especially for an Octomom!

Deniz's mother used to take care of everything. She would cook, talk on the phone, make lemonade and play games with Deniz, all at the same time. She needed so many arms that wasn't just a mom, she was an Octomom! One day they moved to a smaller city and they started to get help from their family and neighbours. Seeing them, Deniz realized the importance of supporting each other in daily life and he started to help his mom too. Day by day Deniz's mother started to lose her arms and have more spare time. Would she turn out to be an ordinary mum with two arms?

GRANDPA'S GROCERY

Author: Şermin Yaşar

Illustrator: Mert Tugen

What if you could simply pick money from trees?

What's an adult's favorite question?

"What are you going to be when you grow up?" of course. One girl has heard that question hundreds of times, but she still doesn't know how to answer it, until one day she realises that her grandpa has the perfect job: he spends all day sitting down in his grocery shop, reading a newspaper, surrounded by food! She decides she wants to follow in his footsteps and starts to work as an assistant in the store. There she learns all about human relationships, psychology, the secrets of business... and a bit about groceries too.

GRANDPA'S GROCERY / THE APPRENTICE

This fantastic companion book to Grandpa's Grocery uses tales from the grocery store as creative sparks to encourage children to write their own stories.

WHEN WILL I GROW UP?

Author & Illustrator:
Gülşen Arslan Akça

*Everybody tells children
"You can do that when you're older",
but when is that time going to come?*

"You can ride that bike when you're bigger" says his father.
"You can play basketball with us when you're older," say the boys on the street.
"You can have something to eat when dinner's ready," says his mother.
Bulut's tired of waiting for everything. Why can't he do it now?
"When Will I Grow Up?" tells the joyful story of a little boy who tries to understand time and growing up.

THE BRAVE HERMIT CRAB

Author: Asiye Yıldırım
Illustrator: Hüseyin Sönmezay

An inspiring story about the importance of respect for nature.

Hermit crabs are having trouble finding new homes because people are polluting beaches and picking up shells. One brave hermit crab makes a plan with her friends to tell humans of the harm they are doing, by sending messages in the sound of the sea that people hear when they put seashells to their ears. When they hear the message, people decide to keep their beaches clean, and protect the shells the crabs need.

A LITTLE LOVELY PLANET

Author & Illustrator:

Oğuz Demir

A cosmic quest for the simplest dream:
A place to belong!

Captain Careless dreams of a little planet to call his own, where he can live in peace with his robot friend, Cuppy. All he longs for are shelter, safety, warmth, and comfort. But he keeps making the same mistakes: cutting down trees, burning fossil fuels and finally making every planet uninhabitable. But when it looks like their latest home is going to be ruined too, Cuppy helps Captain Careless finally realise the damage he is doing, and together they set out to save their cute little planet.

A LITTLE DOT IN SPACE

Author & Illustrator:

Oğuz Demir

We don't have to be enemies with those who are different from us.

In this brilliant upcoming book by award-winning cartoonist Oğuz Demir, Captain Careless mistakenly fears a mysterious red dot in the sky is an alien attack. Paranoid, he destroys his planet's forest to build a massive weapon. When the spaceship lands, he discovers the "monsters" are actually peaceful, hungry tourists who just need iron to fix their ship! Bursting with vibrant colors, a playful cartoon style, and hilarious visual details, this charming space adventure delivers a heartwarming lesson about environmental responsibility and breaking prejudices.

THE DAY THE ANIMALS DISAPPEARED

Author & Illustrator:
Cansu Erkan

When all the animals vanish, the town wakes up—to their absence and to screen addiction.

One morning, the townspeople wake up to an ordinary day—until the children notice something shocking: all the animals have vanished. But in a world consumed by screens, no one else seems to see what's missing. With warmth and wit, this beautifully illustrated story highlights our connection with animals and offers a gentle critique of screen addiction, inviting young readers to look up and pay attention.

LIKE ME

Author & Illustrator:

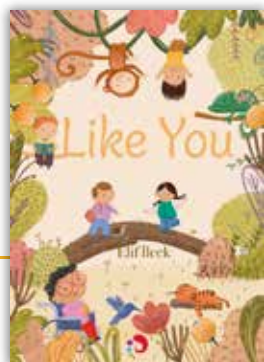

Elif Ilcek

Two books, one beautiful truth:
You are nature, and nature is you.

Like Me and its beautiful companion book, Like You, form a captivating picture book series that mirrors human life through nature. While one explores the botanical world, the other compares children's daily routines—like eating, playing, and sleeping—with animal behaviors. Together, these visually-driven stories foster deep environmental empathy and celebrate individual differences. They serve as essential, mindful guides that gently teach young readers to treat the natural world, animals, and themselves with love and care.

THE INVISIBLE WINDOW

Author: Göknil Özkök

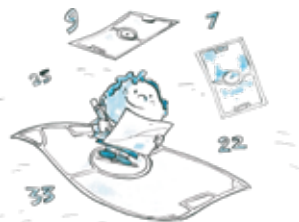

Illustrator: Ceyhun Şen

An inspiring story about embracing life with courage and determination.

Mr Gün is a wheelchair user. He doesn't go outside very much, but it warms his heart to see the children playing in the snow from his window... Until he notices a young girl in a wheelchair who isn't joining in the fun. Mr Gün realizes he must go out into the snow too, to show the girl that having a disability doesn't mean you should be left out.

COUNT ON ME

Author: Elsa Carroasco, Nancy Anaya

Illustrator: Paco Baca

You are different and that's your greatest power!

This is the story of Arthur, a boy with autism who loves maths and football, but has few friends. It is a story about the value of friendship and the love of football. But it is also a book about autism and inclusion, where neurodiversity shows us that each person is different and that is their greatest value.

This story was written by Arturo's mother and 15-year-old sister to create space for inclusion so that people on the autism spectrum can better adapt to social environments.

ASK ME FIRST

Author: Özge Öztürk Birdal

Illustrator: Emel Alp Sarı

A book about setting boundaries.

Children, like adults, have limits, and it's up to them to set their own boundaries. However, parents or close friends sometimes try to dictate what they should do with their bodies and don't always respect their right to say "no."

Children should feel free to make decisions about their own bodies and express themselves openly. Ask Me First may look like a children's book, but it also speaks to adults who struggle with hearing or saying "no."

THE DAY THE THORNS FALL

Author: Özge Öztürk Birdal

Illustrator: Şebnem Aydın

Each pain is unique; sometimes it's visible, sometimes it is only felt in our hearts.

Tarçın's story begins with a small wound, but its journey tells us much more than that. It focuses on the value of listening, understanding, being understood, standing by someone without judgement, silently accompanying them, and making space for someone. This book tells all children, and the child within us, about the power and value of sincere listening and unconditional companionship.

Author: Ridvan Salih

Illustrator: Zeynep Oba

A rabbit, a lion, a fox and a peacock learn the same lesson four different ways:
nobody's difference is a shortcoming.

Four of Aesop's fables, retold in rhymed six-line stanzas and moved from the forest into a small town where every character has a trade: a potter, a tailor, a pharmacist, a street sweeper. In each book, one neighbour believes they are above the rest — and discovers, without ever being punished for it, how much they depend on the others. Each title closes with interactive activity pages.

THE BOOK OF BROKEN THINGS

Author: Seda Akipek

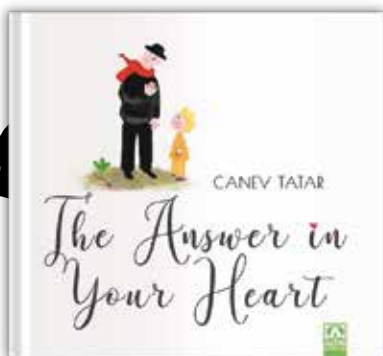

Illustrator: Gamze Öztürk

Every break holds a chance to grow—gentle lessons in resilience, hope, and new beginnings.

The Book of Broken Things is a poetic picture book that tenderly explores the small and big ways children encounter “breaks” in life—from scraped knees to emotional disappointments. Through evocative moments and gentle storytelling, it shows that breaks can heal, teach patience, and even spark excitement. A thoughtful guide to resilience, growth, and seeing every ending as the start of something new.

SATURN AT THE SWIMMING POOL

Author & Illustrator:

Vendi Vernić

Absurd, clever, and strangely familiar—like Kafka for kids (and their adults).

One January morning, the planet Saturn suddenly appears in a public swimming pool called “Future.” At first small, it grows quietly—until it starts getting in people’s way. As confusion mounts, some try to profit, others deny anything is happening, and everyone hopes it will just go away. But as Saturn grows, so does the urgency. A surreal, visually striking allegory about denial, inaction and the quiet absurdity of modern life.

WHY BACH SAID AH?

Author: Vesna Matana Matić

Illustrator: Doria Jantolić

A timeless composer meets a very modern problem.

In a lively household filled with children's laughter, questions, and noise, Johann Sebastian Bach tries to compose—but struggles to find peace. Desperate, he calls for help from the future. Enter Selfina, a girl from another time, who hands out smartphones to Bach's children. At last: silence. But with it comes something unexpected—the music in Bach's head disappears too.

This clever and imaginative book introduces children to classical music while gently exploring how technology can affect creativity and connection. With vibrant illustrations, it offers a playful yet thoughtful look at family life across time.

THE STAR COLLECTOR

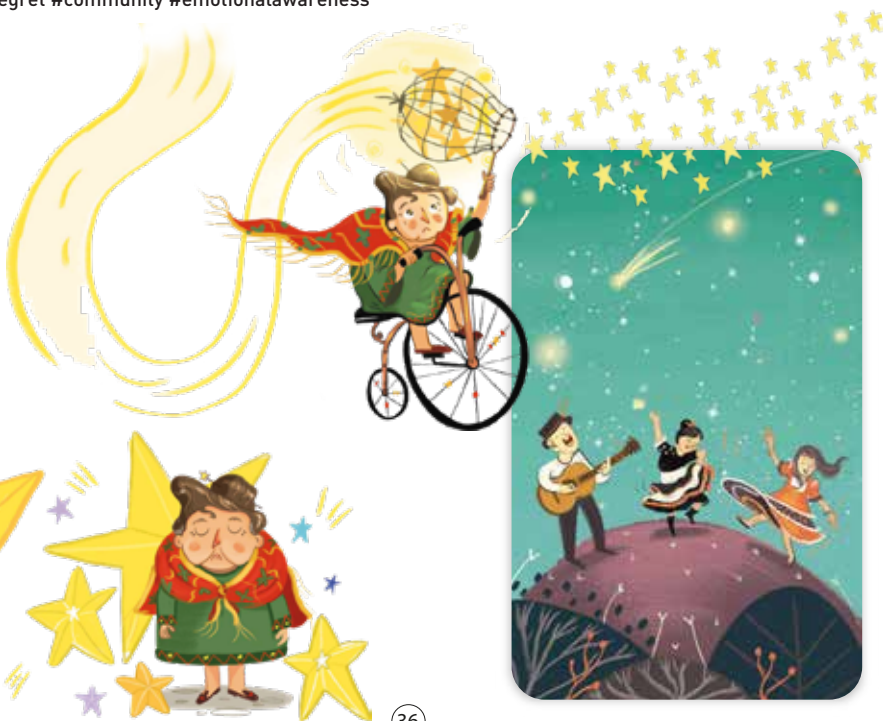

Author: Sevede Tuba Okçu

Illustrator: Aksu Tasayerek

A luminous tale about solitude, sharing, and the light we give others.

Nola loves stars. So much so that every night, she pedals up into the sky to collect the brightest ones and bring them home. But then, people start knocking on her door. One has lost their way, another their inspiration... Some can't sleep, some have lost hope—because the stars are no longer where they belong. As Nola turns away one visitor after another, something begins to shift inside her. What starts as irritation slowly becomes curiosity, then restlessness, and finally a quiet ache for connection. Only when the sky turns completely dark does she realize: some lights are meant to be shared, not kept...

THE MONEY TREE

Author: Şermin Yaşar

Illustrator: Mert Tugen

What if you could simply pick money from trees?

Imagine lying in bed all day—no books, no music, not even the tablet... just lying there. That's exactly what Lazy Boy did. Too lazy to play, eat, or talk, his parents constantly complained. Then a miracle happened: he decided to move. On his very first step, he became the richest person on Earth—then went back to bed. The Money Tree explores the value of effort, work, and friendship through his adventure.

MY GRANDMA IS BACK

Author: Şermin Yaşar

Illustrator: Ezgi Keleş

You'd think my grandma had lost her mind, actually NO!

One day my grandma turned up at our door, wearing roller skates and a ballerina skirt, with bright pink hair! She decided to move in with us, bringing enough pets with her to fill an animal shelter and 15 suitcases stuffed to the brim with weird objects! We were all worried by her behaviour: what had happened to the kind, calm gentle grandma we knew?... Then just when we thought we had lost her for ever, she came back!
