THE BOOK OF BROKEN THINGS

Author: Seda Akipek

Illustrator: Gamze Öztürk

Every break holds a chance to grow—gentle lessons in resilience, hope, and new beginnings.

The Book of Broken Things is a poetic picture book that tenderly explores the small and big ways children encounter “breaks” in life—from scraped knees to emotional disappointments. Through evocative moments and gentle storytelling, it shows that breaks can heal, teach patience, and even spark excitement. A thoughtful guide to resilience, growth, and seeing every ending as the start of something new.

THE CHILD WHO LOVES ALL ANIMALS

Author: Gökçe Gökçeer

Illustrator: Öznur Kaplan

"Weird? Wiggly? Wonderful! I love every animal!"

Umay insists that she loves every creature—no exceptions. But when her friend, Uzay, presents her with some strange and “unlovable” animals, she begins to question what love really means. Umay discovers that true love isn’t about knowing or liking, but about respecting all life.

This warm, philosophical picture book gently invites children to explore the nature of empathy and respect, and the boundaries of love.

RUN, ELEPHANT, RUN!

Author: Hazel Bilgen

Illustrator: Ece Zeber

A heartwarming adventure of friendship and courage!

This is a fun and heartwarming story about a little elephant who thinks a giant bee is chasing him. He runs through the savanna in fear, but with help from his friends—Zebra, Hippo, Giraffe, and Rhino—he learns that the bee isn't scary, it is just lost. Together, they find a way to help. Full of humour, adventure and friendship, this beautifully illustrated book shows young readers that fear often comes from not understanding—and that kindness can turn strangers into friends.

CRAZY HOUSE

Author: Sanja Lovrenčić
Illustrator: Vendi Vernić

One building, countless stories, endless surprises.

A child with a “slow parachute” drifts past the balconies of a very unusual building, discovering the quirky lives of its residents. One tenant sleeps in a cage, convinced he turns into a bird at night; another lives in an elevator with a pet snake; someone builds walls while someone else tears them down. Strange, funny, and wonderfully imaginative, this playful picture book celebrates individuality, showing how even the most different people can live together in harmony.

WHEN WILL I GROW UP?

Author & Illustrator:
Gülşen Arslan Akça

*Everybody tells children
"You can do that when you're older",
but when is that time going to come?*

"You can ride that bike when you're bigger"
says his father.

"You can play basketball with us when you're older," say the boys on the street.

"You can have something to eat when dinner's ready," says his mother.

Bulut's tired of waiting for everything. Why can't he do it now?!

"When Will I Grow Up?" tells the joyful story of a little boy who tries to understand time and growing up.

THE LITTLE DOT

THE DAY THE ANIMALS DISAPPEARED

Author & Illustrator:
Cansu Erkan

When all the animals vanish, the town wakes up—to their absence and to screen addiction.

One morning, the townspeople wake up to an ordinary day—until the children notice something shocking: all the animals have vanished. But in a world consumed by screens, no one else seems to see what's missing. With warmth and wit, this beautifully illustrated story highlights our connection with animals and offers a gentle critique of screen addiction, inviting young readers to look up and pay attention.

THE DAY THE THORNS FALL

Author: Özge Öztürk Birdal
Illustrator: Şebnem Aydın

Each pain is unique; sometimes it's visible, sometimes it is only felt in our hearts.

Tarçın's story begins with a small wound, but its journey tells us much more than that. It focuses on the value of listening, understanding, being understood, standing by someone without judgement, silently accompanying them, and making space for someone. This book tells all children, and the child within us, about the power and value of sincere listening and unconditional companionship.

Absurd, clever, and strangely familiar—like Kafka for kids (and their adults).

One January morning, the planet Saturn suddenly appears in a public swimming pool called “Future.” At first small, it grows quietly—until it starts getting in people’s way. As confusion mounts, some try to profit, others deny anything is happening, and everyone hopes it will just go away. But as Saturn grows, so does the urgency. A surreal, visually striking allegory about denial, inaction and the quiet absurdity of modern life.

A silent story that speaks volumes about leaving—and finding—home.

What does "home" mean to a child?

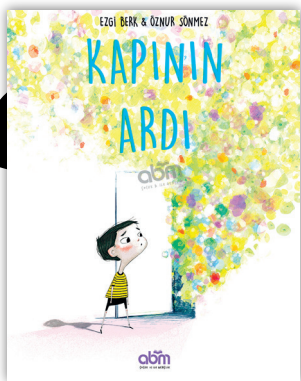

A safe haven? A place to spend time with your loved ones?

The hero of Home is a small boy who one day has to face up to the fact that his family will be leaving their home for another. This is a silent book about saying goodbye to an old home, missing it and feeling a sense of loss, but eventually finding a new safe haven. It speaks directly to the heart—across cultures and languages.

In 2023, Home won the BolognaRagazzi CrossMedia Award, celebrating its expansion from page to screen as both book and short animated film.

A book about setting boundaries.

Children, like adults, have limits, and it's up to them to set their own boundaries. However, parents or close friends sometimes try to dictate what they should do with their bodies and don't always respect their right to say "no."

Children should feel free to make decisions about their own bodies and express themselves openly. Ask Me First may look like a children's book, but it also speaks to adults who struggle with hearing or saying "no."

WHY BACH SAID AH?

Author: Vesna Matana Matic

Illustrator: Doria Jantolic

A timeless composer meets a very modern problem.

In a lively household filled with children's laughter, questions, and noise, Johann Sebastian Bach tries to compose—but struggles to find peace. Desperate, he calls for help from the future. Enter Selfina, a girl from another time, who hands out smartphones to Bach's children. At last: silence. But with it comes something unexpected—the music in Bach's head disappears too.

This clever and imaginative book introduces children to classical music while gently exploring how technology can affect creativity and connection. With vibrant illustrations, it offers a playful yet thoughtful look at family life across time.

THE STAR COLLECTOR

Author: Sevde Tuba Okçu
Illustrator: Aksu Taşyürek

A luminous tale about solitude, sharing, and the light we give others.

Nola loves stars. So much so that every night, she pedals up into the sky to collect the brightest ones and bring them home. But then, people start knocking on her door. One has lost their way, another their inspiration... Some can't sleep, some have lost hope—because the stars are no longer where they belong. As Nola turns away one visitor after another, something begins to shift inside her. What starts as irritation slowly becomes curiosity, then restlessness, and finally a quiet ache for connection. Only when the sky turns completely dark does she realize: some lights are meant to be shared, not kept...

THE MOST IMPORTANT STUDENT OF THE WORLD

Author: Şermin Yaşar
Illustrator: Mert Tugen

What if a grown-up had to go back to school?

Mr Fikri is a very important man – a boss and chairman of the board of directors. Until one day he gets some shocking news. It seems he never officially graduated from school... so now he has to go back! Mr Fikri is determined to graduate as soon as possible and get back to his grown-up life, but it might not be so simple... By the author of the international bestseller Grandpa's Grocery – more than a million copies sold worldwide.

GRANDPA'S GROCERY

Author: Şermin Yaşar
Illustrator: Mert Tugen

What if you could simply pick money from trees?

What's an adult's favorite question? "What are you going to be when you grow up?" of course. One girl has heard that question hundreds of times, but she still doesn't know how to answer it, until one day she realizes that her grandpa has the perfect job: he spends all day sitting down in his grocery shop, reading a newspaper, surrounded by food! She decides she wants to follow in his footsteps and starts to work as an assistant in the store. There she learns all about human relationships, psychology, the secrets of business... and a bit about groceries too.

GRANDPA'S GROCERY / THE APPRENTICE

This fantastic companion book to Grandpa's Grocery uses tales from the grocery store as creative sparks to encourage children to write their own stories.

What if you could simply pick money from trees?

Imagine lying in bed all day—no books, no music, not even the tablet... just lying there. That's exactly what Lazy Boy did. Too lazy to play, eat, or talk, his parents constantly complained. Then a miracle happened: he decided to move. On his very first step, he became the richest person on Earth—then went back to bed. The Money Tree explores the value of effort, work, and friendship through his adventure.

MY GRANDMA IS BACK

Author: Nergis Seli
Illustrator: Başak İşbilir

You'd think my grandma had lost her mind, actually NO!

One day my grandma turned up at our door, wearing roller skates and a ballerina skirt, with bright pink hair! She decided to move in with us, bringing enough pets with her to fill an animal shelter and 15 suitcases stuffed to the brim with weird objects! We were all worried by her behaviour: what had happened to the kind, calm gentle grandma we knew?... Then just when we thought we had lost her for ever, she came back!

THE ENCYCLOPAEDIA OF DIFFERENT MINDS

Author: Zeynep Sevdé, Dr. Fatih Dikmen
Illustrator: İrma Zmirci-Çetinkaya

The people who make a mark on the world are the ones who think different than anyone else!

Who invented the calculator? Was Tesla crazy or a genius? How did Beethoven compose his music despite being deaf? Would modern surgery be possible without the inventions of Zehravi? Weird Minds Atlas tells us all about 52 people who shaped the world with their inventions, with many funny stories along the way... Meet the world's craziest inventors, philosophers, scientist, artists and writers, all in this amazing book.

WHO LIVES ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE WORLD?

Author: Zeynep Sevde, Kerimcan Akduman
Illustrator: Belkis Aksu Çelebi

A unique anthropology atlas for all ages!

Once we were all members of the same tribe! Nowadays there are still thousands of hunter gatherer communities across the world, surviving on what nature gives and protecting their own identities.

Who Lives on the Other Side of the World? gives children a glimpse of some very different civilizations, and helps us meet and learn about them.
